

Values Workshops

As part of the process of identifying the future strategic direction of the business, as well as considering the maturity of the business and status of the marketplace in which it operates, the organisation also needs to consider reflecting on its own collective beliefs and ideals.

We work with organisations on:

- Understanding the collective beliefs and ideals of all 'internal' stakeholder groups, including shareholders, management and employees
- Identifying the most significant beliefs and ideals that exist across stakeholder groups
- Formulating and communicating a set of common values, as agreed to by all stakeholder groups
